PRINTING TECHNIQUES:

Silkscreen printing. A procedure in which paint is pushed through a screen with a scraper. A photochemical process lets the screen become non-permeable in certain areas to guarantee the desired effect. When using coloured logos on a dark umbrella it is wise to add a white base coat to ensure brilliant colours. This method can only be done on a flat surface or anything that can be spread out horizontally such as textiles or segments of umbrellas.

Tampon print. A template of the logo is made and filled with the desired colour of ink. Once this is done the template is transferred onto the article with a silicone pad. These pads come in a variety of shapes and sizes which ensures a transfer onto nearly every surface, including uneven surfaces.

Transfer print. The logo is screen-printed on thermal paper and then transmitted onto the article by heat press. Advantage: even in case of different colours and rough materials the logo is sharp and the colours will not run. This method is perfect for textiles and umbrellas.

Sublimation print. This technique allows to place multicolour graphics, pictures, on white polyester fabrics. Design printed on a special paper with sublimation ink is transmitted by heated transfer press onto fabric.

Digital transfer. The logo, usually multicolour graphic or a full colour picture, is printed via copier on thermal paper and then transmitted onto the article by heat press. Advantage: even in case of different colour shades and nuances the logo is sharp on the rough materials and the colours will not run.

Laser engraving. A computer-controlled laser beam is able to engrave almost every kind of material with highly detailed images and provides exceptional repeatability. The advantages of engraving are high durability and ease of personalization.

Doming (3D resin sticker). Printed sticker is flooded by synthetic resin, which gives the effect of three-dimensional image. Resin layer protects the logo, thanks to which it retains colour and is resistant to damage. The technology is perfect for advertising on e.g. handles of umbrellas.
